

ABSTRACT

Apparatus for delivering acoustic energy to a target site includes a structure and a transducer secured to the structure, the transducer having a surface configured to be placed on a tissue. The structure comprises a channel
5 located adjacent the transducer, the channel adapted for carrying cooling fluid.